BEALES GOES TO CONGRESS

Gettysburg Candidate Carries Both York and Adams Counties by Substantial Margins. Other Results in this County.

C. William Beales, of Gettysburg, is elected to represent the Twentieth Congressional District. The unofficial total for the entire county shows that he has a plurality here of 428 while latest returns from York County show that he has triumphed over Brodbeck there by about 400.

Mr. Beales' election comes after one of the most energetic and vigorous campaigns in which a congressional candidate has engaged here in recent years. Overcoming the plurality of 2200 or more votes which Mr. Brodbeck had two years ago, the new congressman-elect passed it so far that his total gain over Mr. Lafean's vote of two years ago is something like 3000. Mr. Bair, the Washington party candidate, made small inroads in his campaign, however, and polled only 302 votes in Adams County.

When the certainty of Mr. Beales' election became known late Tuesday night his friends started to celebrate and a crowd was soon organized to serenade him at his residence. Letters, telegrams and telephone messages of congratulation have been received all day and Gettysburg's congressman has had a busy time of it receiving his friends.

Adams County gave McCormick more than 1000 majority over Brumbaugh who carried the State with Penrose by an overwhelming majority. Full details of the election in this and other states may be found on the inside pages.

D. Calvin Rudisill, Democrat, is elected to represent Adams County in the State Legislature, having a substantial lead over Mr. Bream, the Republican candidate.

These, in brief, are the results of Tuesday's election, one of the keenest ever fought in this district and the State.

The following are the unofficial totals, the congressional vote being complete for the county; the votes for United States Senator, Governor and Assemblyman being complete with the exception of Liberty and Union townships.

FOR UNITED STATES SENATE
Palmer D 2683
Pinchot W 1060
Penrose R 2076
Palmer's plurality 607

FOR GOVERNOR
McCormick D 3485
Brumbaugh R 2448
McCormick's majority 1037

FOR CONGRESS
Brodbeck D 2781
Bair W 302
Beales R 3209
Beales' plurality 428; Beales' majority 126.

FOR STATE LEGISLATURE
Rudisill D 2877
Bigham W 608
Bream R 2354
Rudisill's majority 523.

HEAR BOROUGH LIGHTING CASE

Gettysburg Light Company Presents its Answer to Proposition of the Town to Establish Plant for its Own Use.

Before the Public Service Commission of Pennsylvania, argument was held to-day in the case of the Borough of Gettysburg's application for a certificate of public convenience, authorizing the construction and commencement of operation of an electric light plant to furnish the borough's own street lighting, if such certificate be required.

J. Donald Swope Esq. represented the borough in the matter, and Hon. A. M. Beitler, of Philadelphia, and J. L. Williams, Esq., of Gettysburg, the Light Company. In their answer to the Commission in the matter, the Light Company says:

"This Company respectfully submits that it is necessary for the Borough of Gettysburg to obtain a certificate of Public Convenience before it can acquire, construct or begin to operate any plant for serving the people, including the lighting of the public streets in said Borough, with heat, light or power, by means of electricity; and that such certificate should not be issued by your Commission for the following reasons:

"The Borough would involve itself in an undertaking costing a large amount of money in a wholly unnecessary and ill-advised project and cost the tax-payers much more than if the bids offered by this Company subject to the approval, reduction, modification or enlargement of your Commission, were operative and the public lighting furnished thereunder.

"This Company would lose a considerable part of its revenue to which it is justly and fairly entitled, would have on hand a large quantity of unsaleable and useless electrical machinery, wires, poles, transformers, supplies, etc., would have a plant equipped at large outlay to supply public lighting and private lighting with a considerable part no longer in use and most likely it would have to advance its rates and prices for its services to private persons, partnerships and corporations within its service territory.

"The Borough would in effect become a competitor of this Company so far as the public lighting is concerned, as it claims to be able to furnish to the tax payers of the Borough street lighting at a less cost to them than this protestant can do. It is contrary to public policy and the spirit of the Public Service Company Law, to encourage or permit unnecessary competition between two public service companies, and it is most important to the tax payers and residents of a Borough to discourage and prevent such competition between the Borough and one Public Service Company.

"This protestant respectfully suggests that if the applicant here were a private corporation applying with the consent of the Borough Council for leave to put up a plant to supply the Borough with street lighting that under the ruling of your Honorable Commission such permission would be refused and for reasons which apply with equal force when the Borough is itself the petitioner. Your protestant embarked its money, installed its plant, increased its capacity and installed its lines for the public lighting upon the reasonable belief that so long as it quoted fair prices to the Borough for public lighting it should receive a contract for such service."

Regarding the proposed borough plant, the Light Company says in its answer:

"The plant as outlined in the Borough's petition provides for no reserve or emergency equipment. In case of accident or breakdown the public will be without light until repairs can be completed.

"Nor does the proposed plant take into consideration the risks of loss attending the business in which the Borough seeks to engage. It is liable to have its poles break, its lamps burnt out by electric storms, its wires snap, and to have damages to pay by reason of the neglect of its employees. Your protestant understands that it is the intention of the Borough that the inspection and supervision of its aerial lines and the installation of lamps are to be entrusted to the police force consisting of two officers neither of them having any experience in the maintenance of electric light lines and both of them having as

GETTYSBURG TEAM LOST TO FORDHAM

But was First Eleven to Score on University. Police Officer Meets them upon Arrival Home and Takes Three before Squire.

Gettysburg continued its string of defeats on Tuesday when it lost to the strong Fordham aggregation in New York City by the score of 21 to 2. Incidentally Gettysburg was the first team to score on the New York eleven for a number of weeks.

Whether or not this score caused the jubilation is not known but, at all events, when the team arrived home this morning Chief Emmons, at the request of Conductor Bomberger, took three of the squad before Squire Harnish. Complaint was laid that they had conducted themselves in a boisterous manner on the way from Harrisburg. S. S. Neely Esq., attorney for the Reading, was sent for and he administered some advice on the proper conduct on public carriers and the boys were allowed to go without fine or any formal legal action being taken against them. Many college friends attended the session in the Squire's office.

The Fordham game was well played and Gettysburg had the better of the argument in the early periods. Double passes figured largely in the New York team's system of attack and the forward pass was twice responsible for touchdowns after the ball had been worked to the twenty yard zone.

The first score came late in the first period. Gettysburg then received the kickoff and executed one run after another until the ball was carried to the ten yard line where a fumble lost A. Fordham's back was tackled behind the goal line and Gettysburg got her two points. Fordham then started from the thirty five yard line and carried the ball to within two yards of the goal where it was lost on an incomplete forward pass. The half ended soon afterward. Score Fordham 7, Gettysburg 2.

Fine work by the Fordham backs yielded a touchdown in each of the last two periods.

much work in the policing of the Borough as they can well attend to. Nor yet does the outline of the proposed plant and the estimated running expenses take into consideration nor allow for any depreciation in plant, equipment nor machinery."

The matter of the dealings between the Light Committee and the Light Company is recited in detail together with charges in other nearby boroughs to show the local company's bid to be reasonable.

TO HIT LOCAL TOBACCO MEN

War Tax will Affect Gettysburg Manufacturers and Dealers. Those in McSherrystown will also Feel Effects.

From the small cigar manufacturing establishments in Gettysburg to the larger factories in McSherrystown and other places in that part of the county, all will have to pay their share of the direct war tax imposed upon cigar manufacturers and tobacco dealers and other business interests in this county by the so-called Underwood-Palmer war tax measure which went into effect Sunday.

The tax, it is feared, will be a blow upon the cigar industry of the county, following the removal of the tariff on the tobacco from the Philippine islands and permitting the unlimited importation of the manufactured and unmanufactured product.

The new war tax will have to be paid by every manufacturer and tobacco dealer, the levies ranging from $3 to $900, according to the amount of business done. All grocers and others whose sales amount to $200 must pay a tax, the assessment on tobacco sales to that amount being $4.80.

It is stated that, while the tax will be a hardship on the small manufacturers and residents of the county who, with their wives and other members of their families make some money during the winter months, it will be equally burdensome on the larger cigar manufacturer, because of the fact that, in addition to having to pay his direct tax, his profits will be further decreased on account of being compelled to pay the broker's tax of $30 or reduce the price of his goods.

Rev. J. Chas. Gardner delivered his first sermon at this place on Sunday evening. The people were very favorably impressed.

Miss Beulah Wetzel, of McKnightstown, is visiting relatives in this place.

Mrs. Margaret Miller, of Gettysburg, was a recent visitor at the home of Miss Irene Wolfe.

Miss Clara Keiholtz, of Gettysburg, spent a week in this place at the homes of W. S. Adams and H. E. Wolfe.

DESTROYING TIMBER

South Mountain Besieged by Costly Forest Fires.

Six mountain fires are raging in different sections of Washington county, while another located on the east side of South Mountain, in Frederick county, is rapidly sweeping toward the boundary line.

Four fires are burning in the vicinity of Smithsburg, one near the new reservoir, the second on Big Mountain, toward Wolfsville, the third along the Raven Rock stream and the fourth near the Frederick county border. Another fire started in the vicinity of Pinesburg Sunday night, while the sixth is sweeping through the mountains south of Clearspring.

Owing to the lack of fire-fighting facilities the fires are assuming serious proportions and already thousands of dollars' worth of timber has been destroyed.

The largest blaze is in the mountains above Clearspring. It is sweeping along in a path more than eight miles long, one end of which is only about two miles from the town. A dense volume of smoke is enveloping that section, forcing many inhabitants out of the reach of the flames to move.

On Thursday evening the Senior Christian Endeavor society of the Reformed church of Arendtsville held a very enjoyable Halloween social in the town hall. The hall was well decorated with lanterns, cabbage, fruit, corn fodder, etc. At 7:30 masked persons started to arrive. Costumes ranged from Little Red Riding Hood to the clown, including an auto bus, and from latest fashions in paper dress to the High School dude. About 60 persons were served with refreshments, after which various games were played.

CASHTOWN

Cashtown—The fine weather is allowing everybody to complete the fall work. Most of the fruit growers have finished packing apples but Mr. Shull is still at that work. He expects to finish this week.

Last Friday evening the P. O. S. of A. gave a very much enjoyed dance in their new hall. On Saturday night the Henderson show played to a large house.

The carpenters have finished the new house of H. A. Bucher up to the point where it is ready for the plasterers. They are now starting on the finishing work at H. W. Deardorf's residence.

Monday everybody took advantage of the rabbit law, but a damper was cast on the hunters' ardor on account of the sad accident to Mr. Kuhn. It is the hope of all that the sight of the eye may be saved and that he may soon again take up his work.

Saturday morning the Cashtown Hunting Club will start out on their old hunting ground where they will get ready for the first day's hunt. As a general thing, this camp has something to show for their work during the deer season.

Three hundred and eight ballots were cast at the polling place on Tuesday.

AUTO DITCHED

Driver Taken Ill and his Car is Badly Damaged.

A six cylinder Paige automobile was ditched near Abbottstown on Monday afternoon when the owner and driver, Toney E. McDonnell, of Philadelphia, was taken ill. Mrs. McDonnell was thrown against the windshield but not seriously hurt. Tourists and machine were taken to Hanover. Mr. McDonnell's illness was not serious.

WHITMAN WINS IN NEW YORK

Republican Elected Governor by 150,000.

WADSWORTH U. S. SENATOR

Plurality Is Largest Vote Given to Candidate Since 1882, When Cleveland Was Elected.

New York, Nov. 4. — Charles S. Whitman, Republican, district attorney for the county of New York, the only district attorney of that county who ever sent a New York policeman twice to the electric chair and threw the trade of the New York gunmen into disrepute by bringing about the electrocution of four of them, has been elected governor of the state of New York over former state comptroller and former congressman and present governor, Martin H. Glynn, Democrat, by a plurality of at least 150,000.

This is the largest plurality ever given to a governor of the state of New York since the plurality given to Grover Cleveland over Charles J. Folger, then chief judge of the New York court of appeals, in 1882. Whitman's plurality may exceed even that given to Cleveland.

James W. Wadsworth, Republican, was elected United States senator from the state of New York over James W. Gerard, Democrat, United States ambassador to Germany, by a plurality somewhat less than that given to District Attorney Whitman. Mr. Wadsworth will be one of the youngest members of the upper house of the national congress and the youngest man ever to represent the state of New York in the United States senate.

By an odd coincidence young Mr. Wadsworth will succeed to the seat in the United States senate now occupied by Elihu Root.

The total vote for William Sulzer for governor, impeached and thrown out of the governor's chair a little more than a year ago, running on the American and Independence league tickets, was about 150,000. In most parts of the state Sulzer ran ahead of Frederick W. Davenport, the Progressive candidate for governor.

Sulzer supporters indulged in a celebration at his Broadway headquarters when they heard that Glynn had been defeated. They gave all credit for Whitman's victory to their leader, and the former governor expressed the same view thus:

"The verdict of the people speaks for itself. Without money, without newspaper support and without organization, I have elected Whitman, beaten Glynn and made Roosevelt look like 30 cents."

SMITH WINS IN MARYLAND

Democratic Leader Re-Elected to the United States Senate.

Baltimore, Nov. 4. — John Walter Smith, successor to the late Senator Gorman as head of the Democratic regular organization in Maryland, was re-elected United States senator

MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

Elected Governor of Pennsylvania on Republican Ticket.

ROOSEVELT IS DISGUSTED

Colonel Retires Early After Hearing New York and Pennsylvania Result.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Nov. 4. — Colonel Roosevelt went disgustedly to bed at 10 o'clock last night.

By that time word had come to him that Whitman was elected governor, that Davenport was running behind and that Colby and other Progressives were making a poor showing in the state.

"So Whitman has won?" said the colonel, and he repeated the sentence musingly. "Was it the religious issue?" Then suddenly he said:

"I have nothing to say, absolutely nothing."

When the outlined reports of the various state elections were read to the colonel, including Penrose's victory in Pennsylvania, he summed it up as follows:

"It seems to me that the Republicans are winning in the east and the Democrats in the west. I always go to bed early on election night," he added.

WILSON VOTED IN PRINCETON

President Takes Just Two Minutes to Prepare His Ballot.

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 4. — President Woodrow Wilson paid a hurried visit to Princeton and for the second time since his election to the presidency voted the straight Democratic ticket in the quaint little firehouse of Mercer Engine company, No. 3, of the volunteer fire department.

He was given ballot No. 89 when he entered the polling place on Chambers street. After spending two minutes by actual count, carefully marking his ballot in the little booth designed for that purpose, he came out and handed the folded paper to R. H. Rose, the judge of election.

"Ballot No. 89 is voted," announced Mr. Rose, in due accordance with the strict New Jersey election laws.

The president smiled broadly. "Not 89, but 79," he said, referring to the class with which he graduated from Princeton thirty-five years ago.

CALIFORNIA IN DOUBT

Progressive Probably Elected Governor and Republican U. S. Senator.

San Francisco, Nov. 4. — The result in California is still in doubt, but Hiram Johnson, Progressive, appears to be elected governor, with Fredericks, Republican, second, and Curtin, Democrat, third.

Indications are that the prohibition amendment will be defeated. Joseph Knowland, Republican, is probably elected United States senator over D. Phelan, Democrat, with Heney, Progressive, third.

Underwood Elected U. S. Senator. Birmingham, Ala., Nov. 4. — The full Democratic state ticket, a solid Democratic delegation to congress and Oscar W. Underwood to the United States senate is elected. Efforts were made in the seventh congressional district by the opposition to defeat Congressman Burnett, but he had a majority over both the Republican and Progressive candidates. Republicans have a few members of legislature, but the number has been reduced. George Huddleston, an attorney of Birmingham, succeeds Oscar W. Underwood as congressman from the Ninth district.

G. O. P. Landslide In Vermont. Burlington, Vt., Nov. 4. — The two Republican candidates for congress have carried the election by an overwhelming majority. The entire Republican state ticket headed by C. W. Gates, of Franklin, swept the state. The senatorial contest has apparently been won by Dillingham, Republican, over Prouty, Democrat and Progressive.

Light Vote In Texas. Austin, Tex., Nov. 4. — An unusually light vote was polled in Texas. James H. Ferguson, Democrat, was elected governor by probably 150,000 majority. Both the Republicans and Progressives had state tickets in the field, but they received small support.

The Result In Idaho. Boise, Idaho, Nov. 4. — Alexander, Democrat, was elected governor by a large majority, and Brady, Republican, to the senate, and Smith and McCracken, Republicans, to the lower house.

G. O. P. GAINS IN NEXT CONGRESS

Democrats Retain Control by Reduced Majority.

ONE PROGRESSIVE IN SENATE

The Next House Will Probably Be Democratic By 19 and the Senate By 14.

Washington, Nov. 4. — The empty dinner pail has again asserted itself in the election of members of the United States senate and house of representatives.

The large majority in the house and the comfortable one in the senate held by the Democrats have been very greatly reduced.

The indications are that the house will be Democratic by a majority of nineteen and the senate will have fifty-five Democrats, forty Republicans and one Progressive.

The lone Progressive seems to be Congressman Poindexter, of Washington. The only Progressive candidate for congress from the city of New York who was in the last congress, Walter M. Chandler, representing the Nineteenth congress district seems to have won over a Mr. Battenweiser. The result, however, is still in doubt.

Joseph G. Cannon, for many years speaker of the house of representatives, has been elected from his old Danville, Ill., district.

Senator Sherman, of Illinois, insists that he is elected over his Democratic opponent, Roger C. Sullivan. Boies Penrose has been returned to the senate from Pennsylvania, where Gifford Pinchot, former United States senator, gave Penrose a hard fight. Returns indicate that Palmer was third in the race.

Oscar W. Underwood has been easily elected to the United States senate from Alabama, and Hoke Smith has been re-elected in Georgia.

In Missouri Senator William J. Stone, the Democratic candidate, has been elected over Thomas J. Akins, Republican. The vote was the heaviest cast in years.

Meager returns from Kansas indicate that the congressional delegation will have four Democrats and four Republicans.

Out in Arizona they had a warm fight, but Governor Hunt is probably re-elected by about 10,000.

In Massachusetts the Progressives suffered almost as badly as poor Belgium. Bull Mooseers returned to the Republican party in droves, and Governor David I. Walsh squeezed in by a plurality of about 15,000 over Samuel J. McCall, the Republican candidate. Joseph Walker, the Progressive candidate, polled less than 40,000 votes, while a year ago Bird, the Progressive candidate for governor, polled 120,000.

Governor Simeon E. Baldwin, of Connecticut, is probably defeated for United States senate on the Democratic ticket.

In New Jersey it was the same story of Republican victory. The Republicans got control of the senate and will probably have a majority of the lower house. Congressman Allen B. Walsh, representing President Wilson's own congressional district, was defeated. Two years ago he received a majority of 4600.

WISCONSIN REPUBLICAN

LaFollette's Candidate Was Third In Race For Governorship.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 4. — The vote in this state shows Republican gain over 1912 and the candidacy of J. J. Blaine, LaFollette's Independent Progressive candidate, was third in the race.

This spells a repudiation by the state of Wisconsin of LaFollette's influence where he originated the Wisconsin idea of progressivism.

Phillips, Republican, is elected governor by 30,000.

The state will supplant two of its Democratic congressmen with Republicans.

GEORGIA SOLID DEMOCRATIC

Elects Governor, Two U. S. Senators and All Congressmen.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 4. — Hoke Smith and T. W. Harwick, Democrats, were elected to the United States senate over C. W. McClure and G. R. Hutchins, Progressives, by an overwhelming majority.

Smith succeeds himself and Harwick will fill the unexpired term of the late Senator A. O. Bacon.

Georgia returns a solid Democratic delegation to the house of representatives. Judge Nat E. Harris, of Macon, was elected governor to succeed John M. Slaton.

The Vote In South Carolina.

Charleston, S. C., Nov. 4. — With an by Socialist opposition the entire Democratic ticket was anticipated—overwhelmingly elected. Ellison D. Smith is returned as United States senator and Richard I. Manning is elected governor to succeed Coleman L. Blease. The seven Democratic congressmen were re-elected. The situation as regards the proposed bond issue of $24,000,000 to help the cotton farmers is sorely confused.

OREGON VOTE SPLIT

Democrat Senator, Independent Representative, Republican Governor.

Portland, Ore., Nov. 4. — Oregon has gone Democratic for senator, Independent for representative and Republican for governor by what is termed the closest race ever known in the state.

Chamberlain seems sure of returning to the senate, as is LaFollette of returning to the lower house of congress.

Prohibition seems to have lost, the Catholic vote, following the edict against prohibition of Cardinal Gibbons recently, having been cast against it.

The betting was the heaviest known in an Oregon election. The Republican wave of the east partly hit the Pacific coast.

OHIO IN DOUBT

Woman Suffrage Has Been Overwhelmingly Defeated.

Columbus, O., Nov. 4. — Woman suffrage has been defeated overwhelmingly.

The vote for governor is very close between Governor Cox, Democrat, and Willis, Republican. The senatorial returns indicate the election of Harding, Republican, over Hogan, Democrat.

The two principal cities of Ohio went strong against prohibition. The city of Cleveland voted wet by 40,000 and Cincinnati by more than 50,000. Columbus, the capital, voted dry by a very small majority. Home rule won in Cleveland by about 40,000 and also in Cincinnati. Columbus voted against home rule, but only by a small majority.

INDIANA IS CLOSE

Returns Show Big Gains For Governor. All Over State.

Indianapolis, Nov. 4. — Returns are meager, but those received are representative of all sections and show phenomenal gains for the Republicans over their vote of two years ago.

Miller, for the United States senate, is leading Shively, while Beveridge is running a poor third, with less than half the number polled by each of his opponents.

The loss of the Progressives, headed by Beveridge, is nearly 200 per cent, compared with the vote of two years ago.

Senator Stone Re-Elected.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 4. — Senator William J. Stone's election to the United States senate over Thomas J. Akins, of St. Louis, is assured. The Democratic claim of 50,000 plurality for Stone will be borne out. Eleven constitutional amendments confusing the voters has made the returns unusually slow. Indications are that the suffrage amendment has been defeated decisively. The Progressive vote was light.

G. O. P. Victories Please Taft.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 4. — Former President Taft expressed himself on the result of the election as follows: "I am very much pleased to hear the good news of a Republican victory. I earnestly hope that it will help business and tend to restore confidence. Incidentally it seems to relegate the Progressive party and its leaders to innocuous desuetude. I am reconciled to this result."

Cannon Elected to Congress.

Danville, Ill., Nov. 4. — Joseph Cannon, Republican, former speaker of the house, was elected to congress by 3500 majority over O'Hara, the Democratic incumbent.

Gore Goes Back to Senate.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Nov. 4. — Senator Thomas P. Gore, Democrat, has been returned by a good majority to the United States senate.

Senator Fletcher Re-Elected.

Jacksonville, Fla., Nov. 4. — Senator Fletcher and the entire Florida Democratic congressional delegation were re-elected.

JUDGE FINDLAY DEAD

Wealthy Hagerstown Jurist Had Been Ill a Short Time.

Judge James Findlay, 77 years old, one of the wealthiest and most prominent citizens of Hagerstown, died suddenly at his home shortly after 2 o'clock Monday morning.

Judge Findlay was born in Chambersburg. He was a graduate of Princeton in 1858, and in 1866 he was elected director of the Washington County bank, in Williamsport, Md. He became its president April 1, 1880. In 1879 he was elected Judge of the orphans' court.

Judge Findlay married first in 1861 and two children of that marriage are surviving. They are Sophia Van Lear, wife of Colonel Charles A. Little, and Nancy Irwin, wife of the Rev. R. A. Boyle, pastor of the Presbyterian church, Hagerstown. His second wife was Miss Anna Howell Kennedy, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Howard Kennedy and a granddaughter of Thomas Kennedy, the famous author. Judge and Mrs. Findlay resided in the old Dr. Kennedy mansion, built by Colonel Nathaniel Rochester, founder of the city of Rochester, N. Y.

SANTA'S SHIP IS FITTING OUT

Will Take Message of Good
Will to Europe.

COLLIER JASON THE BEARER.

Laden With Christmas Gifts From Children of America and Others to Orphans Made by War, She Will Visit England and France and Other Countries.

Not a day passes without news of more killings in the frightful strife in which Europe is engaged, and some men have calculated that by next Christmas 1,000,000 children will be fatherless because of the war.

It is to bring at least a little Christmas joy to these orphans that America's Santa Claus ship will sail from New York on Nov. 15 with a cargo of gifts from the children of America and other well meaning persons to the children of the war stricken countries of Europe.

The collier Jason has been designated by Secretary Daniels to carry the Christmas presents. The Jason is 536 feet long and 65 feet wide. Her hold is 36 feet 3 inches deep. She can carry 10,500 tons. She is made of steel throughout. Her cost was $951,000.
The commanding officer of the ship is Henry T. Merrivether, who ranks as a master in the naval auxiliary service.

Jason is Uncle Sam's Contribution.
With the assignment of the Jason everything has been done that can be done by the government to make the children's Christmas movement a success.

The navy department has been working on the itinerary of the Jason. It is expected that the first stop will be made in England. From there the collier will cross the channel and probably go to Havre, since that is the nearest port to Paris, provided that port is still an open port by the time the Jason reaches the other side.

All the foreign countries have assured a safe convey to the Santa Claus ship. France is going to give her a reception, and so is England, and, as for the other countries that will be visited, everything points to a grand welcome.

Interest in the Christmas ship throughout the country has been stimulated for several weeks by influential newspapers in various large cities, which have been urging their readers to contribute gifts for the children of Europe.

Wilson Greatly Interested.
John Callan O'Laughlin, the Washington correspondent of the Chicago
Herald, wrote:

"Think of it, children of America!
President Wilson, your president, is very much interested in the plan to send Christmas gifts to the fatherless little ones of war ridden Europe.

"The ambassadors of the countries at war, the men who are on duty at the capital of the nation looking after the interests of their respective nations, say that your gifts will be received and bring joy and comfort and great thankfulness to those boys and girls whose fathers are dead and for whom there can be no Santa Claus unless you take his place.

"Isn't that marvelous that you can so stir the world; that you can get the United States, which is neutral, to join with Great Britain, France and Russia and Germany and Austria and little Belgium, all of which are belligerents that is a mouthful, in sending a ray of light through the gloom that covers Europe?"

"What does all that mean?
"It means first of all that through the work of your brains and your hands you are going to make a little girl or a little boy smile through his tears on Christ's birthday.

"Isn't that worth working for?
"Then it means that war will pass by the ship that carries your gift to the poor, fatherless child; the ship with the stars and stripes, your country's flag, and the streamer of white with the star of hope, Christ's flag, and the single word "Inasmuch."

Chance to Make Friends For Us.
The suggestion has been made that the women who are working for the sufferers and soldiers in Europe attach to each gift they send a small tape bag bearing the words "A gift from America."

Every one making a garment for those in need is actuated by a kind thought, the sponsors of this idea say, and conversely every recipient must have a feeling of gratitude toward the unknown donor. The plan, they say, is a splendid opportunity to make friends for America.

"We Hunger," Say the Belgians.
A woman of Copenhagen, Denmark, received recently from Belgium a postcard, the writer of which, a Belgian, advised her to remove the stamp, as it was rare. Under the stamp were found three words, "Nous avons faim" ("We are hungry").

War Orders For Packers.
For the first time in sixteen years
the meat packers at the Chicago stock yards are working day and night in the canned meat and hide departments to fill orders due to the European war.
In the canning department 3,000 extra men have been put to work within a week.

Worst Lot of All.
"Please help me, kind lady, for I am hard driven." "Here's a dollar for you, my poor man. Do you mean you are driven to desperation?" "No, ma'am, to work."

In Wartime.

Now strike the hour upon the clock,
The black sheep may rebuild the years;
May lift the father's pride he broke,
And wipe away his mother's tears.

To him, the mark for thrifty scorn,
God hath another chance to give,
Sets in his heart a flame newborn
By which his muddled soul may live.

This is the day of the prodigal.
The decent people's shame and grief;
When he shall make amends for all,
The way to glory's bloody and brief.

Clean, from his baptism of blood,
New from the fire he springs again,
In shining armor, bright and good,
Beyond the wise homekeeping men.

Somewhere tonight—no tears he shed!
With shaking hands they turn the sheet,
To find his name among the dead,
Flower of the army and the fleet.

They tell with proud and stricken face
Of his white boyhood far away—
Who talked of trouble or disgrace?
"Our splendid son is dead!" they say.
—Katharine Tynan in British Review.

GIVE THANKS FOR PEACE, SAYS PRESIDENT WILSON.

His Thanksgiving Proclamation Points
Out Reasons For Gratitude.

In this year's Thanksgiving proclamation President Wilson designates Thursday, Nov. 26, as Thanksgiving day and makes mention of the fact that the United States is at peace, while the rest of the world is at war.
The proclamation says in part:

"The year that is now drawing to a close since we last observed our day of national thanksgiving has been, while a year of discipline because of the mighty forces of war and of change which have disturbed the world, also a year of special blessing for us.

"It has been vouchsafed to us to remain at peace, with honor, and in some part to succor the suffering and supply the needs of those who are in want.
We have been privileged by our own peace and self control in some degree to steady the counsels and shape the hopes and purposes of a day of fear and distress. Our people have looked upon their own life as a nation with a deeper comprehension, a fuller realization of their responsibilities as well as of their blessings and a keener sense of the moral and practical significance of what their part among the nations of the world may come to be.

"The hurtful effects of foreign war in their own industrial and commercial affairs have made them feel the more fully and see the more clearly their mutual interdependence upon one another and have stirred them to a helpful co-operation such as they have seldom practiced before. They have been quicken by a great moral stimulation. Their unmistakable ardor for peace, their earnest pity and disinterested sympathy for those who are suffering, their readiness to help and to think of the needs of others, has revealed them to themselves as well as to the world.

"Our crops will feed all who need food; the self possession of our people amid the most serious anxieties and difficulties and the steadiness and resourcefulness of our business men will serve other nations as well as our own.
Never before have the people of the United States been so situated for their own advantage or the advantage of their neighbors or so equipped to serve themselves and mankind."

EMDEN MAKES FOES HELP.

Germany's Naval Terror to Allies
Coals From Captured Ships.

Naval men throughout the world at war or peace are praising the exploit of the German cruiser Emden, which, flying the Japanese flag and disguised by the addition of a fourth smoke stack, entered Penang, a British possession in the Straits Settlements, and fired torpedoes which sank the Russian cruiser Jemtechug and a French destroyer.

One explanation of how the Emden is able to keep at sea without putting into ports for coal is contained in a cablegram received from Colombo
Ceylon, by the owners of the steamer Exford, one of the vessels captured by the Emden.

The cable reported the safe arrivaat Colombo of the captain and crew of the Exford and added that the commander of the Emden announced before he sank the Exford that he intended to take on board the cruiser the 7,000 tons of steam coal which the Exford carried.

The Emden, by the addition of a cruiser and a destroyer to the long list of ships she has sent to the bottom, is in a fair way to rival the amazing record of destruction made during the civil war by the Alabama, one of the warships built in England for the Confederate states. It was the Alabama's havoc that afterward gave rise to the so called "Alabama claims."

During the twenty-three months of her existence the Alabama sank more than seventy ships, many of them merchantmen. Some writers place the number at more than 150. The Emden, it is reported, already has sunk twenty merchantmen in addition to two warships.

War Kills "Peace Tree."
The peace tree planted by Representative Richard Bartholdt in the capitol grounds at Washington in 1898, when peace was made between the United States and Spain, is dying. The sturdy oak had progressed finely until the end of July last, when it began to droop.

Small Market Value.
If the statistics were available probably it would be found that 92 per cent less money can be borrowed on a family tree than on a cord of wood.

BARTLETT TELLS OF ARCTIC WALK

Tramped Over Ice to Save His Comrades.

CRAWLED PART OF WAY.

"All In Day's Work," Says Explorer and Navigator Returned From Far North With Eight of Party After Losing Eleven Others—He Made Perilous Trip With Only One Eskimo.

After a bitter experience in the northern wastes, nine survivors of the Canadian arctic expedition, which left Esquimaux in June, 1913, arrived at Victoria, B. C. They were brought from Nome, Alaska, on the United States revenue cutter Bear. The party was headed by Captain Robert A. Bartlett, the famous explorer.

Eight of the exploration party were lost on the journey from the point where their ship Karluk was crushed by the ice to Wrangel island, and three died in camp at the island, one from an accident.

"All In the Day's Work."
Captain Bartlett told the story of the Karluk's last voyage in bare facts. Relating a few of the obstacles he had to overcome on his tramp across the ice
from Wrangel island to Emma Harbor, Siberia, he dismissed most questions as to his perils with a nonchalant "Well, it's all in the day's work."

Realizing that help must be summoned from somewhere or the entire party on Wrangel island would succumb through starvation, Captain Bartlett decided to set out on a walk which would bring him to the outside world.
He knew the journey meant terrible hardships and possibly death.

"On March 18," he said, "I left the camp with an Eskimo boy, Kattovick, seven dogs and a sledge made by Mr.
Hadley, the exact copy of a sledge used by Peary in his trips. We had supplies for ourselves and dogs for thirty-eight days. I intended to get to East Cape, Siberia. We had difficulty in crossing the strait which separates Wrangel island from the mainland, the air line distance being 100 miles.

"I thought when I left the island that I would make it in seven days, but strong easterly and westerly gales and the moving ice retarded our progress.
As we neared the Siberian coast we had considerable difficulty with the rafted ice and deep, soft snow.

"On one occasion I was seventeen days making a distance of ninety miles.
In some places the young ice was barely strong enough to support our sledge, and the ice would not support us in walking, so we had to cross it by lying flat on our stomachs and crawling across. Owing to the hardship of the journey several of my dogs gave out completely, and my native boy showed signs of losing his nerve.

"Early one morning I sighted land and hoped to reach it that evening.
On seeing the land Kattovick became very active. More leads were encountered during the day, and I had to spend another night on the ice. The next day northerly winds set in and raftered the ice up on the Siberian shore. By working hard all day we managed to reach North Cape, Siberia.

"I saw no signs of habitation, so we camped for the night. The next morning we started along the Siberian coast for East Cape. One lone igloo was sighted, and we went in. In the ice hut I found a Siberian native, his wife and one child.

Saw Their First White Man.

"I came across the first white man at Koluchin bay. He made both of us at home, and we got considerable bread and tea. Being in need of a couple of good dogs I traded my bloodhounds to a native for two huskies. At Cape Serdze, Siberia, I met a trader who, after taking us in and feeding us, assisted us in getting to East Cape.

"Both Kattovick and myself were beginning to feel the effects of our hardships. My legs were swelling, and at times I experienced difficulty in walking. After more hardships I reached East Cape and there met an English trader. It was here that I met Baron Kilest, the Russian district commissioner for that part of Siberia.

"The baron offered to take me to Emma Harbor, Siberia, where his headquarters were located.
"The whaler Herman reached Emma Harbor during the latter part of May,
and I immediately made arrangements to have the whaler take me to Nome, Alaska. When we arrived off Nome the roadstead was blocked with ice, so we headed for St. Michael.

Eyes and Legs In Bad Shape.
"Arriving there, I was still suffering from swollen legs and feet, and my eyes also were giving me trouble. After notifying the Canadian government by telegraph I received medical attention. In a week's time I had nearly recovered from my illness.

"While I was recuperating at St.
Michael the cutter Bear arrived on June 5. She reached Nome Aug. 30.
Four days later we started out on our second attempt to rescue the men at Wrangel island.

"On Sept. 8 we met the schooner
King and Wing, and she informed us that she had the eight survivors from Wrangel island on board. The men were transferred to the Bear in order to receive medical attention. We then returned to Nome."

His Engine Reversed.
"What's the trouble, old man?" "I'm in a bad way. I lie awake nights thinking about my work. Then when I'm at work I keep going to sleep."—Tit-Bits.

EXTRA VOTES TO WIN THE PRIZES

The Present Week will Have Greatest Effect of All on Final Count and only those who Hustle can Expect to Win.

One hundred thousand extra votes on every club of new subscriptions amounting to twenty five dollars. And the number of clubs allowed any constant is not limited. That is the reason why this is the biggest week of the campaign and why the votes received by the contestants this week are going to have such a telling effect on the final count at the end.

That is also why the real hustlers of the campaign are putting forth such a strenuous effort this week. They realize that it is impossible to find a better opportunity and they also know that it will be necessary for them to get their share of these extra ballots
if they want to be in the race.

So, if your name is on the list, either make up your mind that you are going to make this week count or else you will know that you are away behind and that it is going to be almost impossible for you to catch up in the short time that remains. Do not be satisfied with one or two sets just because the votes count up so fast.
Remember the others are working on this offer and it will be necessary for you to keep up with them if you want to win a prize.

If you have not already enlisted the help of your friends on this offer, do so at once. Call at the office and get a receipt book for them so that they can get around and get subscriptions for you among their friends and acquaintances. Get them started at once so that they will be able to make an extra club or two on this offer for you and so that their help will come at a time when it will count the most.

Plenty of Smiths.

The unassailable supremacy of the "Smiths" in London can be estimated from the telephone directory. The honorable family of Jones, for example, occupies not quite four pages. The Robinsons, who have a place with the CHAPTER IV.

The Seven Lumberjacks.

THE more I saw of Joe in the days which followed, the more I appreciated the man and the more I became convinced of his remarkable gifts. It was not long after our return from St. Amel before Joe succeeded in getting me a fair shot at the large red deer buck of Wildey pond, and it so happened that the killing of this buck brought us news of old Highman, for we took the head down to him to set up.

Joe and I walked over and found him living with his daughter, Janey Lyon, for the police had never been successful in discovering the identity of the avenger of Big Tree portage. The two seemed very happy together, but I must acknowledge that I feared from what I saw that the beautiful Janey would not continue to bear the name of Lyon much longer. I said as much to November Joe as we were walking back.

"That's nature," said he. "Old Man Highman told me that neither Baxter Gurd nor Miller don't give her no peace. Well, I guess a woman's better married anyway."

It was drawing on toward evening and had begun to rain when we turned from the woods into the mile long trail that led to November's shack. His quick glance fell at once upon the ground and, following his eye, I saw the impression of fresh tracks.

"What do they tell you?" I asked, for it was always a matter of interest to me to put November's skill to the little daily tests that came in my way.

"Try yourself," said he.

"A man in moccasins—probably an Indian—has passed along. Isn't that right?" I asked.

November Joe smiled grimly.

"Not just quite. The man isn't an Indian; he's a white man, and he carries big news and has not come very far."

"You're sure?" I said, stooping to examine the trail more closely, but without result.

"Certain! The Indian moccasin has no raised heel. These have. He's not come far. He's traveling fast—see, he springs from the ball of the foot, and when a man finishes a journey on the run you may be sure he thinks he's got a good reason for getting to the end of it. This trail leads nowhere but to my shack, and we'll sure find our man there."

Ten minutes later, when we came in sight of November's home, we were aware of a big man sitting on a log smoking his pipe beside the door. He was middle aged, with a hard face, and there was more gray in his russet beard than his age warranted. As soon as we appeared he leaped up and came across the open to meet us.

"Blackmask is at it again!" he cried.

I saw a gleam of anticipation, if not of pleasure, cross November's face. He turned to me.

"This is Mr. Close, manager of the River Star Pulp company's Camp C," he said. "I'd like to make you known to Mr. Quaritch, Mr. Close." This courtesy concluded, he added in his deliberate tones, "What's Blackmask done now?"

"He's at his old tricks! But this year we'll lay him by the heels, or my name's not Joshua Close." The speaker looked up, and, seeing my puzzled expression, addressed himself to me.

"Last year there were five separate robberies committed on the road between Camp C and the settlement," he explained. "Each time it was just a single lumberjack who got held up, and each time a man in a black mask was the robber. November here was away."

"Up in Wyoming with a Philadelphia lawyer after elk," supplemented the tall young woodsman.

"The police failed to make any arrest, though once they were on the ground within four hours of the hold-up," went on Close. "But all that is ancient history. It is what happened to Dan Michaels last night that brought me here at seven miles an hour. Dan has been working for pretty high a three months' stretch, and the day before yesterday he came into the office and told me his mother was dead and he must have leave for the funeral. He had a good big roll of bills due, and I could see he meant to blow them, so I paid him and told him I'd try to keep a job warm for him till he came back from the funeral. I gave him ten days to get through with his spree. Something I'd said annoyed him, and after telling the cook his opinion of me and saying he wouldn't sleep another night in a camp where I was boss he legged out for the settlement."

"By himself?"

"Yes, alone. Next morning, bright and early, he was back again, and this was the yarn he slung me. He'd made about eight miles when it came on darkish, and he decided to camp just beyond where we did the most of our timber cut last year. He slept at once and remembers nothing more until he was started awake by a voice shouting at him. He sat up blinking, but the talk he heard soon returned his eyes open.

"Hands up and no fooling!"

"Of course he put up his hands. He'd no choice, for he couldn't see any one. Then another man who was in the bushes behind his back ordered him to haul out his bundle of notes and chuck them to the far side of the fire or take the consequences. Dan saw a revolver barrel gleam in the bush. He cursed a bit, but the thieves had the drop on him, so he just had to out with his wad of notes and heave them over as he was told. A birch log in the fire flared up at the minute, and as the notes touched the ground he saw a chap in a black mask step out and pick them up and then jump back into the dark. Then the voice that spoke first gave him the hint not to move for two hours or he'd be shot like a dog. He sat out the two hours by his watch without hearing a sound and then came back to C.

"When the boys got all the facts the whole camp was high as mad as he was. They put up $50 reward for any one giving information that would lead to catching the robbers, and I added another hundred for the company. So now, Joe, if you can clap your hand on the brutes you'll be doing yourself a good turn and others too."

Close ended his narration, and looked at November, who had listened throughout in his habitual silence.

"Do the boys up at C know you've come to me?" he said.

"No, I thought it wiser they shouldn't."

November remained silent for a moment.

"You'd best get away back, Mr. Close," he said at length. "I'll go down to Perkins' clearing, and have a look at the spot where the robbery took place, and then I'll find some excuse to take me to Camp C, when I can make my report to you."

To this Close agreed, and the two of us set out through the woods to the site of Dan Michaels' bivouac. The ashes of a fire and a few boughs made its scanty furnishings, and in neither did November take much interest. Forth and back he moved, apparently following lines of tracks which the drenching rain of the previous day had almost obliterated, until, indeed, after ten minutes, he gave it up.

"Well, well," said he, in his soft cadenced voice, "he always did have the luck."

"Who?"

"The robber. Look at last year! Got clear every time."

"The robbers," I corrected.

"There's but one," said he.

"Michaels mentioned two voices, and the man in the mask stepped into sight at the same moment as the fire glinted on the revolver of the other man in the bushes."

Without a word November led me to the farther side of the dead fire and parted the boughs of a spruce, which I had previously seen him examine. At a height of less than five feet from the ground one or two twigs were broken, and the bark had been rubbed near the trunk.

"He was a mighty interesting man, him with the revolver," November threw back his handsome head and laughed. "There was only one chap, and he fixed the revolver here in that fork. It was a good bluff he played on Dan, making him think there was two agin him! The rain's washed out most of the tracks, so we'll go up to Camp C and try our luck there. But first I'd better shoot a deer, and the boys'll think I only come to carry them some meat, as I often do when I kill anywhere nigh the camp."

As we made our way toward C, November found the tracks of a young buck which had crossed the tote road since the rain, and while I waited he slipped away like a shadow into the wild raspberry growth, returning twenty minutes later with the buck upon his shoulders.

On reaching Camp C November sold his deer to the cook, and then we went to the office. The men were all away at work, but we found the manager, to whom November told his news. I noticed, however, he said nothing of his idea that there had been but one robber.

"Hands up and no fooling!"

"That just spells total failure," remarked Close when he had finished. November assented. "Guess we'll have to wait till another chap is held up," said he.

"You think they'll try their hand at it again?"

"Sure. Who'd stop after such success?"

"I'd be inclined to agree with you if it wasn't for the fact that the men won't leave singly now. They're scared to. A party of six started this afternoon. They were hoping they'd have the luck to meet the scoundrels and backing how they'd let daylight into them if they did. But of course they won't turn up—they'd be shy of such a big party."

"Maybe," said November. "With your permission, Mr. Close, me and Quaritch'll sleep here tonight."

"All right. But I can't attend to you. I'm behind with my accounts, and I must even them up if it takes all night."

"And there's one question I'd like to have an answer to. It's just this: How did the robber know that Dan Michaels was worth holding up? Or that he was going off on the spree? He must have been told by some one. Blackmask has got a friend in Camp C all right. That is, unless—"

"Ay, unless?" repeated the manager.

But November would say no more. An idea had come into his mind, but Close could not draw it from him; yet I could see he had entire trust in the taciturn young woodsman.

Next morning November seemed in no hurry to go, and shortly before the midday meal a party of half a dozen men rushed into the camp. They were all shouting at once, and it was impossible for a time to discover what the turmoil was about. Leaning against the wall of the bunkhouse, the silent November surveyed the clamoring knot of men with grim humor.

"I tell you again, we've been held up, robbed, cleaned out, the whole six of us," yelled a short man with a sandy beard.

"That is true!" cried a fair haired Swede.

On this they all began shouting again, waving their arms and explaining. November advanced. "Look, boys, that's an easy, comfortable log over there!"

The Swede answered him with a snarl, but, meeting November's eyes, thought better of it. Joe was the last person upon whom any one would choose to fix a quarrel.

"I was suggesting, boys," continued November, "that there's the log handy, and if you'd each choose a soft spot and leave one to speak and the others listen till he's through with it we'd get at the facts. Every minute wasted gives them as robbed you the chance to get off clear."

"November's right," said a huge lumberman called Thompson. "Here's what happened. We six got our time yesterday morning, and after dinner we started off together. It were coming along dark when we camped in the old log hut of Tidson's bridge. Seem' that had happened to Dan, we agreed to keep a watch till dawn. First watch was Harry's. In an hour and a half he were to wake me. He never did. The sun were up before I woke, and there was all the others sleeping round me. I was wonderful surprised, but I took the kettle and was going down to fill her at the brook. It was then that I noticed my roll of bills was gone from my belt. I came running back. Harry woke, and when I told him he clutches at his belt and finds his money gone too. Then Chris, Bill, Mavor, Wedding Charlie and last of all Long Lars they wakes up, and danged if the lot of them hadn't been robbed same as us."

A unanimous groan verified the statement.

"We was tearing mad," went on the spokesman. "Then out we goes to search for the tracks of the thieves."

A look of despair crossed November's face. I knew he was thinking of the invaluable information the feet of the six victims must have blotted out forever.

"You found them?" inquired November.

"We did. They was plain enough," replied the big lumberman. "One man done it. He come up from the brook, did his business and went back to the water. He was a big, heavy chap with large feet, and he wore tanned cowhide boots patched on the right foot. There were seventeen nails in the heel of the right boot and fifteen in the other. How's that for tracking?"

Few Folks Have

Gray Hair Now

Druggist Says Ladies are Using Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture by asking at any drug store for a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. Besides, it takes off dandruff, stops scalp itching and falling hair. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.

Help Comes Quickly

When Hyomei is Used For Head Colds, Catarrh or Croup.

When your head is all stuffed up causing you dull headaches, difficult breathing, constant sniffling, and you feel generally miserable, there is nothing quite equal to Hyomei to give quick, effective and lasting benefit—yet perfectly harmless, simple to use and inexpensive.

To get quick and certain relief from catarrh or a cold it is most important that the medication goes directly to the inflamed tissue lining the air passages. That's the Hyomei method. Just put a few drops of the antiseptic Hyomei in the inhaler that comes with every complete outfit and breathe it—you will feel better at once. It clears the head, quickly relieves the tightness in the chest and that choked-up feeling, all disagreeable nasal discharges, watery eyes and dull headaches surely cease.

So certain is the People's Drug Store of the curative powers of Hyomei for catarrh, croup, asthma, and similar diseases, that they sell it on the "No-cure-no-pay" plan.

Grumps' Opportunity.

Everything had gone wrong with Grumps that morning, and as he strode gloomily down the suburban road on his way to the station he was simply aching for an outlet for his temper. "Good morning," cheerfully called out the man from The Elms overtaking him. "Good morning—good afternoon—good evening. Now we've made a day of it!" snarled Grumps, viciously.

Consequences.

It is easy, in a complicated civilization like ours, to have altogether too much regard for consequences. Let only the thing to be done be right in itself, and the thing to be said be true in itself. But sit down and figure first on the consequences, and in nine times out of ten you will neither say what is true nor do what is right.—Carl S. Patton.

STOPS HEADACHE, PAIN, NEURALGIA

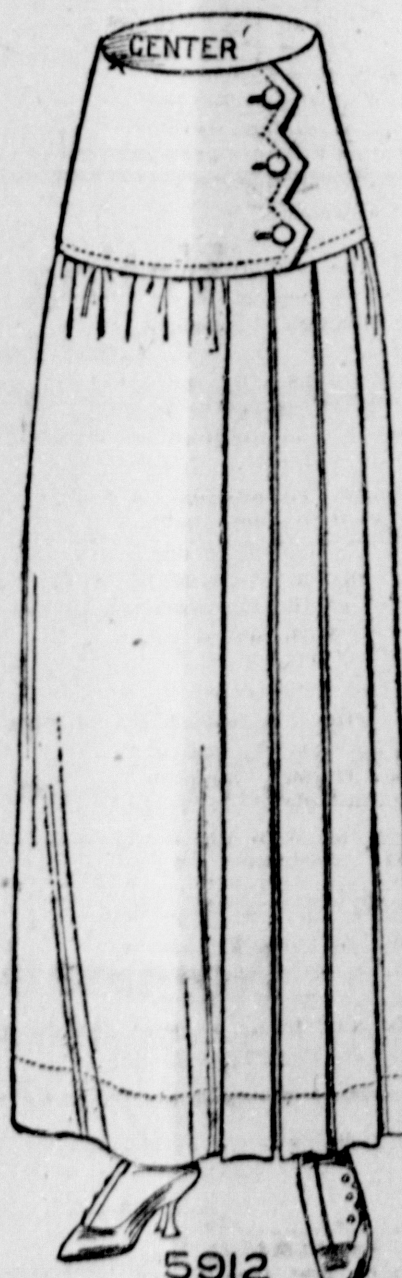

Don't suffer! Get a dime pack of Dr. James' Headache Powders.

You can clear your head and relieve a dull, splitting or violent throbbing headache in a moment with a Dr. James' Headache Powder. This old-time headache relief acts almost magically. Send some one to the drug store now for a dime package and a few moments after you take a powder you will wonder what became of the headache, neuralgia and pain. Stop suffering—it's needless. Be sure you get what you ask for.

USING UP COLD POTATOES.

BREAKFAST MENU.
Stewed Peas. Cream Farina.
Rice and Egg With Bacon Curls.
Browned Potatoes.
Rolls and Toast.
Coffee or Cocoa.

WHEN the housewife has cold potatoes she can concoct with them many dainty dishes for luncheon or tea.

A Trio of Useful Recipes.

Sllice cold boiled potatoes an inch thick and brown on a wire gridiron. Season with salt, butter and pepper. Cut cold boiled potatoes small, put into saucepan with milk almost to cover; then when the milk has become hot stir and mash the potatoes with a large spoon until there are no lumps. Add salt or butter until it is as dry as you wish it. Stirring often makes it better. Boil in water, just to cover them, seven potatoes; then slice, sprinkle with salt and fry them. Slice also half an onion and fry brown. When cooked sufficiently add a few drops of sugar, mix onion with potatoes and serve hot.

Combined With Cabbage.

Potatoes and Cabbage.—Cut fine a small head of new cabbage and fry a delicate brown. Take cold boiled potatoes, mash and season with cream, butter, pepper and salt, beat very smooth and add fried cabbage. Serve very hot.

Potatoes and Cheese.—Take two cups of cold boiled potatoes and heat them in one and one-quarter cups of white sauce. Put in a buttered baking dish, cover with buttered crumbs and one-half cup of grated mild cheese. Arrange potatoes and cheese in alternate layers before covering with crumbs. Bake until crumbs are brown.

The Ever Popular Salad.

Potato Salad.—Take one quart potatoes, two tablespoons chopped onion, one teaspoonful salt, one-eighth teaspoonful pepper, one-half cupful vinegar, two tablespoons diced bacon, one tablespoonful finely cut parsley and one cupful pickled beets. Boil and skin the potatoes. Put the bacon and onion in pan and fry until tender, but not dark. Add the vinegar, salt and pepper. Boil a minute and pour over the potatoes. Mix well and put in center of plate. The beets are chopped and put around the potatoes. The meat is put around the outside. Sprinkle all with parsley.

MOTHER SUPERIOR ROSARY HILL HOME

Tells How Vinol Restores Strength and Vitality to the Weak, Worn-Out Ones in Her Charge.

Rosary Hill Home, Hawthorne, N.Y.—"I have been at work among the sick and poor for nearly eighteen years, and whenever I have used Vinol for run-down, weak or emaciated patients, they have been visibly benefited by it. One patient, a young woman, was so weak and ill she could hardly creep to my door for aid, and was leaning on a friend's arm. I supplied Vinol to her liberally and in a month when she returned to thank me I hardly recognized her. She was strong, her color charming and her cheeks rounded out. These words are uttered from my heart, in order that more people may know about Vinol, as there is nothing makes me happier in the world than to relieve the sick."—MOTHER M. ALPHONSA LATIROP, O.S.D., Hawthorne, N.Y.

Such disinterested and reliable testimony should convince everyone of the merits of Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic to build up health and strength for all weakened and nervous conditions, whether caused from overwork, worry or chronic coughs and colds. If Vinol fails to benefit we return your money.

U. P. SWEEPS PENNSYLVANIA

Penrose and Brumbaugh Elected by Big Pluralities.

VOTE WAS A LANDSLIDE

Republican Candidates Sweep the State With Pluralities of 200,000 or More.

Philadelphia, Nov. 4.—The Republicans made a clean-up in the election in Pennsylvania. Aided by the great anti-Democratic sentiment prevalent in the state, as well as in the remainder of the country, it regained much of its old-time power in political affairs, and elected its state candidates, as follows:

United States senator—Boies Penrose.

Governor—Martin G. Brumbaugh. Lieutenant governor—Frank B. McClain.

Secretary of internal affairs—Henry Houck.

Congressmen-at-large—John R. K. Scott, Daniel F. LaFane, Mahlon M. Garland and Thomas S. Crago.

Brumbaugh's majority for the governorship over Vance C. McCormick, Democratic-Washington party nominee, probably is in excess of 200,000. Penrose will have a plurality of equal size over his nearest opponent, as the vote against him was divided between Gifford Pinchot, Washington party candidate, and A. Mitchell Palmer, Democratic nominee.

Judge Frank M. Trexler, the appointee of Governor Tener on the bench of the state superior court, backed by the Republicans, is elected by a big majority over James E. Clark, temperance candidate, on the non-partisan ticket.

Only one candidate supported by the Republicans may have fallen by the wayside—Judge Robert S. Frazer, slated for justice of the state supreme court. He may be defeated on the non-partisan ballot by Judge George Kunkel, of Dauphin county, who won a reputation some years ago by the manner in which he presided over the capitol graft cases.

The Republicans sweep up the congressional delegation of the state, gaining possibly fifteen seats over the present Republican representation in congress. The political division of the delegation now is eighteen Republicans, twelve Democrats and six Progressives. In the new congress the Republican members from Pennsylvania may total twenty-eight and the Democratic membership four.

JERSEY DEMOCRATIC

Have Elected Eight of the Twelve Candidates For Congress.

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 4.—Returns from the New Jersey election indicate the election by the Democrats of eight of their twelve candidates for congress, five of the eight candidates for the state senate and a safe majority of the house of assembly.

This will retain them in majority in both branches of the legislature, but shows a loss of three congressmen, there being but two Republicans in the present house.

The results in the several districts in congress were:

- First—William J. Browning, R.
- Second—Isaac Bacharach, R.
- Third—Thomas J. Scully, D.
- Fourth—E. C. Hutchinson, D.
- Fifth—William E. Tuttle, D.
- Sixth—Archibald C. Hart, D.
- Seventh—Dow H. Drucker, R.
- Eighth—G. E. McDonald, D.
- Ninth—Arthur B. Seymour, D.
- Tenth—E. W. Townsend, D.
- Eleventh—John J. Egan, D.
- Twelfth—James A. Mamill, D.

DELAWARE REPUBLICAN

Thomas W. Miller Elected as United States Senator.

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 4.—Secretary of States Thomas W. Miller, Republican, was elected as Delaware's only representative in congress over Franklin Brockson, Democrat, the present incumbent, by a plurality throughout the state that will exceed 100.

The legislature will probably be close. The Republicans will also elect Edwin, Republican, as state treasurer, and Duff, Republican, as state auditor.

The Vote in Arkansas.

Little Rock, Ark., Nov. 4.—Arkansas voted for members of congress only. The results follow: United States senator, James P. Clarke, Dem. Congressmen—First district, T. H. Jaraway, Dem.; Second district, W. A. Oldfield, Dem.; Third district, J. T. Fillman, Dem.

Tennessee in Democratic Column. Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 4.—General Thomas C. Rye, Democratic candidate for governor, has defeated Ben N. Hooper, Republican present incumbent. The surprise has been the mail vote in the Hooper stronghold met and middle Tennessee.

4. Carolina Elects Overman Senator. Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 4.—L. S. Overman, Democrat, was elected to the United States senate. There was little opposition. Ten Democratic congressmen were elected.

WALSH WINS IN MASSACHUSETTS

Democrats Elect Governor by Reduced Plurality.

ers returned to the Republican ranks in droves, and as a result Governor David I. Walsh has barely squeezed through for re-election over Samuel W. McCall, the Republican nominee.

Walsh has a plurality of about 15,000, while a year ago he led Charles S. Bird, the Progressive candidate, by 55,612.

Joseph Walker, the Bull Moose candidate for governor, polled less than 40,000 votes as against 127,655 cast for Bird a year ago.

Returns from the congressional districts are incomplete, but show that the Republicans have held all their present seats and added three more—in the Eighth, Eleventh and Sixteenth districts—and have prospects of winning also in the Thirteenth and Fourteenth districts.

The legislature is Republican by an increased majority.

COLORADO ELECTS DEMOCRAT

Thomas Re-Elected to U. S. Senate. Governorship in Doubt.

Denver, Colo., Nov. 4.—Charles S. Thomas, Democrat, has been re-elected to the United States senate.

George A. Carlson, Republican, and Thomas M. Patterson, Democrat, are running neck and neck for governor, with both sides claiming victory. The Republicans claim Carlson's election by 12,000. Captain E. H. Costigan, Progressive, is out of the race.

State-wide prohibition issue is up in the air. The drys concede Denver has gone wet by about 5000 majority, but claim that they have carried the amendment in the state by a majority strong enough to overcome this lead.

Counting in Nebraska Slow.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 4.—A six-foot ballot which contained constitutional amendments and a number of laws referred to popular vote has made the counting very slow. It is impossible to make any estimate upon the final result. Howell, Republican, is making substantial gains over two years ago, but these are not steady enough to indicate the victor. The first precinct returns on woman suffrage point to the defeat of the amendment.

Arizona Democratic.

Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 4.—There was a Democratic sweep in Arizona. The Republicans have probably elected one tax commissioner. Congressman Hayden leads the ticket. Eugene Chaffin, Prohibitionist, claims his election as senator, but the Democrats say that Senator Mark Smith is re-elected by 10,000. Governor Hunt is safe.

A brave soul is a thing which all things serve.—Alexander Smith.

CLEVER RUSE WON PASSAGE

Amusing Experience of a Railroad Conductor.

We are considered heartless, said the conductor, because we put people off trains who tell us all sorts of stories as to why they can't pay their fare. The truth is we are not permitted to judge in such matters, our orders being to collect all fares. The only case in which I violated my instructions was where I considered myself to blame in depriving a passenger of his ticket.

I was in charge of the Chicago Limited from New York at the time and was going through the train punching tickets when I came to a handsomely dressed young man with a suit case beside him plastered all over with the names of foreign hotels. It was mid-summer, and he was sleeping with the window beside him open, a derby hat pulled down over his eyes. We conductors have to deal with so many people who pretend they don't hear us when we call for tickets that instead of asking a second time we poke them. The young man referred to seemed to be sleeping so soundly that I poked him vigorously in the side. He started up as if he had been shot, knocking his hat out of the window. Placing his hands to his side he groaned.

"I beg pardon," I said. "I hope I didn't hurt you."

"Hurt me?" he said, almost breathless with agony. "You've nearly killed me. I've an abscess on my liver."

"I'm sorry about your hat," I remarked, hoping to draw his mind from his sufferings.

"Hat? What hat?"

"Didn't you notice that it went out of the window?"

"Did it? I don't care anything about a hat. I can buy one as soon as I have the time. But I'm afraid you've done me up. Doctor told me to let him operate on my liver, promising if I didn't that the first thing I ran my side against night break the abscess and kill me."

The young man was so frightened about himself that I began to feel uneasy for fear I had done him serious injury. I stood leaning on the back of the seat looking down on him anxiously till his sufferings seemed to moderate, then asked again for his ticket.

"Oh, my ticket! If you'd have asked me for it you might have had it long ago. It's this confounded poking you conductors practice that I object to. I'm going to report this matter to the proper official of the road and find out if something can't be done to stop the nuisance."

"I'll repair the damage," I replied.

"by getting you another hat at the first stop."

"Hut! What's a hat to me? It cost me a guinea in London only last week, but do you suppose I'm thinking about that? I'm worrying for my life."

Meanwhile he had taken out his pocketbook, opened it, pulled out a ticket, which proved to be a check of some sort, put it back, took out something else, paused for a paroxysm of pain, clapping his hand on his liver; shut up his pocketbook, put it away and began to search elsewhere for his ticket. Suddenly he stopped hunting and exclaimed:

"By thunder, I am in a fix!"

"What's the matter now?"

"Ticket and baggage checks all in the lining of my hat."

I sighed. Here was more blame for me, consequent upon my poke.

"Now, see here," pursued the young man angrily and talking loudly enough to be heard all over the car. "this is an outrage. You not only ran your fist into me, but knock my hat out of the window with my string of tickets all the way to Chicago, and I've got nothing to show for my trunks."

More unpleasantness for me. I could pass him to the end of my run, but what would he do after that? However, I braced up and said to him:

"Never mind your ticket."

I was about to move on when he stopped me.

"I do mind my ticket or the loss of it, and I want you to fix me to Chicago."

"Chicago?"

"Certainly, Chicago. You've deprived me of my tickets there, and I don't propose to let you off without making my loss good. I'm a lawyer, I am, and I'll begin suit not against you—I'm not so stupid as that—but against the road. It'll pay for the tickets, besides damages and costs."

The question arose in my mind. Shall I get the company into a lawsuit and doubtless lose my position or put the man through? I decided on the latter course. We conductors have ways of doing things with our fellow conductors, and I gave the passenger a line to those who followed me which they would understand. This seemed to satisfy him. He stopped his loud threats and went to sleep again.

Several days after the incident a letter came for me containing a check. I looked at the signature of the letter, and it was signed "The Man You Poked."

The check was for the price of a ticket from New York to Chicago. The writer confessed that he had been on a lark abroad and returned to New York stranded. He wanted to know if he hadn't played it on me pretty well, concluding with the information that poking passengers for tickets was an American custom not practiced by "guards" abroad. His liver was doing as well as could be expected.

I have never since poked a passenger.

It's good to be gratified, but dangerous to be satisfied.—Sheldon.

DRAFT HORSES IN AMERICA.

As Good Stock Can Be Raised Here as Abroad.

(Prepared by United States department of agriculture.)

The best breeds of draft horses are now so well established in the United States that experts of the United States department of agriculture believe that the European war, which has interfered seriously with importations, will not injure breeding in this country. It is, in fact, asserted that the American people will now have an opportunity to see for themselves that as good stock can be raised in this country as any that can be imported.

The leading characteristic of good draft horses is massiveness, for their chief usefulness is the hauling of heavy loads. In consequence power, not speed, is desired. To possess this power a horse should be compact, low set, or short legged, and be able to throw a great deal of weight into his collar without losing a secure footing. A draft horse of the best type should therefore weigh at least 1,600 pounds, and in localities where the heaviest breeds are common any animal under this is classed as a light drafter. In good drafters the chest is deep and broad, the girth large and the body broad, deep and comparatively short, with well sprung ribs. The muscles of the hind quarters and thighs must be well developed, for it is these that furnish the chief drawing power, the front legs acting largely as weight carriers. Good legs and feet, with clean, heavy bone, are very essential. In action the draft horse should walk with a rapid stride of good length, the feet being carried straight forward. This kind of action covers considerable ground in a short time. The ability to trot well is also desirable, but the walk is the draft horse's gait.

Today the Percheron probably out numbers in this country all other breeds combined. In fair condition a mature stallion will weigh from 1,800 to 2,000 pounds, though many exceed this. In height it runs from sixteen to seventeen hands and in color is usually either black or gray. The Percheron stallion has proved very popular for crossing with ordinary mares, and grade Percherons are great favorites in our markets.

Loss of Barnyard Manure.

Pile up the manure of the barnyard with no protection from leaching and other detrimental actions of nature, and more than 20 per cent of the fertilizing strength of the manure is lost. Put down a bed of earth and on this pile the manure, spreading a thin coat of earth occasionally, and finally when the heap is completed, cover it with a thick coat of earth. The result has been that only about 2 per cent of the fertilizing strength of the manure has been lost. Tested in the field, earth preserved manure has been found to yield on a potato crop three times as much as the carelessly kept and unprotected manure.

Soon the cattle will be in the stalls for winter feeding and the time for making the manure heaps will begin. This is a year when conserving every thing that is useful that has been going to waste should command the attention of the farmer.—Home and Farmstead.

SOMETHING ABOUT CATTLE

No farmer who has not tried it should engage in the cattle feeding business on a large scale at the start. He will find, and at a pretty high cost, that experience and good judgment are needed as much as corn to lay the fat on a bunch of steers at a profit.

The power of production in a cow is inherited. If the cow is a good dairy animal by inheritance and is given good care and feed she will become more productive as she increases in age. The quantity rather than the quality of her milk is influenced by feed.

It costs just so much to put a pound of meat on an animal, and if it is lost during the winter, from low feeding or exposure, it is just that much extracted from the owner's pocket. It is much more profitable and sensible to retain every pound of flesh gained and also if possible to keep each animal improving all through the winter.

Pure bred dairy cattle will often be the keynote to great profit from the farm. What is the use of keeping an indifferent, nonproducing animal of any description when one that will make a handsome profit will take no more room, no more care and no more feed?

A Prophecy

By DONALD CHAMBERLIN

Margaret and I met in Florence. We were both of an artistic makeup, and there is nothing more pleasing than the companionship of one with congenial tastes. We sauntered through the galleries of that artistic city and admired the works of art together.

Then, too, there is something unifying to kindred spirits in being thrown together in a foreign country. America to Americans on the other side of the Atlantic ocean seems so far. The customs of those countries are so different from ours. They seem so old, we so new. It is this that draws Americans abroad together who would live for years next door to each other and never form an acquaintance.

These meetings between fellow countrymen of opposite sex frequently end in love affairs, and such was the case with Margaret and me. But my suit was not successful. Whether this was due to Margaret or the influences brought to bear upon her I did not know. At any rate, I returned to my home, leaving my heart in Florence, and I realized that I would never get it back again.

On my voyage home the stateroom opposite me was occupied by a young man who had gone abroad for his health and, having failed in his quest, was coming back to die. There was no one on board whose business it was to minister to him, and the duty fell to me. I became very much attached to him, and he seemed grateful for my attentions. More than that, he seemed to love me as a brother.

I told him of my disappointment, and he seemed to be regretful for me. He tried to comfort me by telling me that he had a feeling deep down in his heart that Margaret and I would meet again and that all would be changed. "She loves you," he said. "I know it. When she refused you it was contrary to her inclinations. She will return to America much changed. Her circumstances will be different. Instead of refusing to listen to your suit she will be glad to lean upon you, happy and relieved to be loved by you."

He seemed so earnest, so sure, in what he said that I was greatly surprised. Could it be that to one so near death had been imparted something of that knowledge of future events we are prone to attribute to those who have passed the portal of eternity? The thought occurred, but I did not really believe it.

My friend lingered till we reached the coast. Then he said that if he could be spared through the brief journey that remained to him to his home he would be content to die. I accompanied him and spent with him the few days he lived after being again under his own roof. The day he died he was, or seemed to me to be, delirious.

"I see men marching," he said, "hundreds, thousands, millions. They are like fields of wheat. A mowing machine is passing through them, and they are falling just as I have seen the grain fall in the fields of a summer day. People are fleeing before them. Some are peasants; some are gentle-folks; some are without a roof to cover them; some are starving; some are strangers in that land and, being cut off from home and friends, have no one to care for them."

At this point his voice sank to murmurings, and I understood no more. I had left Italy early in the spring, and when my friend died the leaves had not yet put forth their buds. I was busily engaged, but not so much as to recover from my disappointment. My mind during the day constantly reverted to the man who I felt was my natural mate, and the nights were dreary without her.

Late in July there came like thunder, claps out of a clear sky declarations of war all over Europe. Hundreds of thousands of Americans were stranded there. All, or nearly all, were cut off not only from their homes, but from the wherewithal to meet their necessities. Naturally I thought of Margaret, for I had seen no announcement of her return. I would have filled my pockets with gold and gone to seek her that I might supply her necessities, but I realized that I would be unable to find her and would not likely be able to reach her if I knew where she was. All I knew of her whereabouts was that she had left Italy, for it was not intended when I parted with her to remain there after the spring opened.

Since I could not go to her I waited for her to come to me. Something told me that my lost friend's words would come true. When a steamer bringing Americans from Europe came in I was on the dock and watched eagerly those who came down the gangplank. One day I was at my post as a steamer docked and as she swung around to back into the pier I caught sight of a pale, haggard girl standing on the deck.

I rushed to the gangplank, but was ordered away. I waited while the throng of sufferers left the ship. My eye was on Margaret, but she did not see me in the crowd on the dock. As she stepped off the gangplank I caught her in my arms. Looking up, she recognized me and broke into tears of joy.

Here was one of the bitterest of those many bitter tales. Her father had died before the outbreak of the war, and she and her mother had been turned out in the cold with not a hundred francs on which to subsist and return home.

It Will Come Back.

Algvy—"When I saw the guards marching past yesterday, I quite lost my head." Dora—"Don't worry, Algvy. It will be no use to anyone. You are sure to get it back."

The popes gave up their claim to issue coinage in 1867, when Pius IX minted some few silver lira. Unlike some of his predecessors he left off his coins the representation of the keys symbolical of the claims to a Petrine succession.

Met His Approval.

Passer-by (to farmer leaning on roadside fence)—"Do you approve of automobiles?" Farmer—"Sure! Why wouldn't I? Didn't I make over $50 clean cash haulin' 'em out of snow-drifts last winter?"

Slightly Mixed.

Here is a schoolroom story, told us by a Michigan health supervisor: "We were raising funds for paying for operations for removal of the adenoids and tonsils. The school children were much interested and canvassed the town selling stamps. At one home where a little boy called to sell stamps the lady asked: 'What are you going to do with the money?' The little boy quickly replied: 'It is to buy adenoids for little children that haven't got none.'—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.
